

Artist Statement

I am a multi-media artist, who mainly uses graphic design, photography, screen printing and collage. I have designed three web sites and have a special interest in pinhole photography. Recently, I have been interested in examining how we inhabit our world. What evidence are we leaving behind, and more importantly is this the evidence we want left. I feel that examining our waste and personal ephemera can give great insight as to who we are. The little things that decorate the fabric of our personal worlds, tend to spill out into the greater space that we all share. This collision of worlds is what intrigues me the most. Because of this, I am also deeply passionate about how we are allowed to share this space. I want to think more critically about what I am leaving behind and what this says about who I am. I enjoy stepping away from the more technical aspects of my mediums because this allows me to capture the atmospheres around us.
